

New par-three course to officially open in Bali this October

The fifth hole features views of the Indian Ocean

By Sean Dudley

Wed 07 Sep, 2016

The first 18-hole par-three golf course in Indonesia will officially open for play this October.

Located at Bukit Pandawa Golf & Country Club on the island of Bali, the new par-three course has been designed by Bob Moore of JMP Golf Course Design.

Bukit Pandawa Golf & Country Club sits on the edge of the Bukit Peninsula and is characterised by a number of rock outcroppings, terraced rice paddies and clifftop sea views.

A highlight of the design is the 148-yard 13th hole, which is framed by three bunkers and features curved stone walls in the foreground and a traditional Balinese kul-kul tower and the Indian Ocean in the background.

With a par of 54, a typical round takes about 90 minutes.

The official grand opening will take place on 8 October.

SHARE THIS STORY

COMMENT ON THIS STORY

0 Comments Golf Course Architecture

1 Login

MOST POPULAR

Pierre Fulke Design progressing with series of upgrades at Frosaker GC

Royal Sydney GC appoints Gil Hanse to create masterplan for golf facilities

Staying ahead of the game at Clearwater Bay

Six-hole course to open as part of new Nicklaus academy in Hong Kong

Steve Forrest overseeing work on course at Taylor Meadows GC

ON TWITTER

Tweets by @gcamagazine

 GCA magazine @gcamagazine
#GCA speaks to Riley Johns about his work with Keith Rhebb at Winter Park GC: ow.ly/YBb8303YZT6

12h

 GCA magazine @gcamagazine
New course on Bali to officially open this October: ow.ly/BYSY303YyfU

Embed

View on Twitter